Proposal for Extension of Fire Chief's Term Has Many of Princeton's Volunteers Fuming

DRESS PARADE: Members of Princeton's fire companies line up for inspection at Borough Hall Friday evening after their annual parade, while youngsters perched on the Princeton Battle Monument, stand guard. Flowers carried by officers in the three companies are a tradition going back many years. Kitty Heermance, a former Princeton florist, gives the flowers in memory of her father, who thought Princeton's fire parade needed a little color.

It had begun to seem like Firemen's Week in Princeton, what with the annual parade, a special training session, preliminary discussions about retaining a fire inspector and talk of extending the fire chief's term from one year to three.

It was the chief's term that sent the week — and many of the firemen — up in a cloud of fire and exploding brimstone.

"I am one of only two drivers, but I will submit my resignation tonight, if this ordinance is introduced," declared fireman Larry Dupraz angrily, as Borough Council discussed the chiefs' term at last Thursday's work session.

It turned out that Mr. Dupraz was actually one of the milder opponents of the measure. Council member Richard Woodbridge, who is also Fire Commissioner, said that he and present Fire Chief Raymond Wadsworth had received telephone calls that sounded like three-alarm fires.

What angered most of the firemen was the procedure. Peter Hodge, foreman with Hook and Ladder, explained

Miss Mason's Philosophy to Be Continued In School Planned by Parents and Teachers

The American Boychoir School has given the nod to a small band of Miss Mason's School parents and teachers who have been seeking to continue the educational philosophy and practices of that school — now closed — at another location.

The American Boychoir trustees have agreed to lease a small parcel of land on its campus off Lambert Road for one year for temporary classrooms. Robert L. Walligunda and Nancy Robins head the committee for the new school, which has the tentative title of The Bayard School, pending state approval. The former Miss Mason's School was at 53 Bayard Lane for 30 years.

Mr. Walligunda, president of Sky Promotions and Balloon Enterprises, Inc., is the father of four Miss Mason's pupils, one of whom "graduated" from third grade this year. Mrs. Robins, who will become the headmistress of the new school, has been involved with Miss Mason's School since 1966 when the first of her four children was enrolled.

She taught first grade at Miss Mason's from 1972-76 and worked in the office from 1978-82. She has a degree in history and German with teacher certification from the University of Oklahoma and has

Annual Inspection of Princeton Firemen Interrupted by Mulberry Row Pot Roast Fire

As the firemen and their finely polished equipment parade proudly down Nassau Street in the annual inspection, one burning question, inevitably raised by some spectator, is "What happens if a fire breaks out?"

It happened, at 7:44 p.m. Friday. Township police received a report of smoke billowing out of an apartment on Mulberry Row in Princeton Community Village. Two patrol cars were dispatched. The Plectron alarm was sounded.

That caused half a dozen firemen, who had heard the alarm on the pagers they always carry, to break ranks at the Borough Hall inspection ceremonies, and dash for their cars. An engine was also dispatched from Mercer Engine Company Number 3 — It was the first truck in line.

The fire-fighters probably could have stood on ceremony in this case. The source of the smoke: a pot roast burning in the oven. Fans from the fire engine were used to dissipate the smoke.

The men, about 130 of them, had just posed for the first photograph of all three fire companies in 70 years. The last picture of the combined companies was taken in 1912.

Institute Will Be Able to Cluster 400 Houses On Tract of Land Paralleling Quaker Road

On its 500-acre tract paralleling Quaker Road, the Institute for Advanced Study will be able to cluster about 400 houses — or "dwelling units" as planners like to say — after passage of the Township's ordinance creating a new E-3 zone for the Institute land.

Public hearing will be held next Wednesday, July 7 at 8 in the Valley Road Building.

So far, the Institute has no particular plans for the property, according to Institute lawyer A.C. Reeves Hicks, although he hopes for a "concept appearance" before the Planning Board shortly after Labor Day. This would simply mean an overall discussion with the board about an idea for developing the land.

Mr. Hicks points out that, under the new E-3, the Institute isn't getting anything other property-owners don't have. When the Township passed its cluster ordinance, it left out the Institute acreage.

"Clustering wasn't allowed there before," he continued, "so we requested re-zoning so that we could have the advantage of clustering, as other property-owners now have."

On the Master Plan map — but not on the Township's zoning map — the Institute's land is designated conditional-high-density, and Township Engineer Walter Wheeler explains that the new E-3 is a step toward that end. Under a conditional high density ordinance — and there is none yet — developers would be allowed to build to a higher density if they included moderately-priced homes. This would not be required of a developer; it would simply be an option.

"If conditional high density were ever allowed, we'd consider integrating it into the development," Mr. Hicks said.

Although the Institute's land is low-lying and Quaker Road itself is in both the floodway and flood-hazard zones, the chief problem with developing the property is getting into and out of it.

"Quaker Road is too often under water to be the prime access for a development of this size," Mr. Wheeler warns, "and the Institute must address this. I don't think the town would approve a plan with that as the sole access."

"There must be other access besides Quaker," Mr. Hicks acknowledges, "and the institute knows that."

No plans yet, but the Institute has retained New York planners Richard Weinstein and Donald Elliott to see what might be done. At one time, by the way, they had architect-planners Venturi, Rauch and Scott Brown and Collins as developer. But Collins bought Palmer Square and turned to other things.

to Council that the proposal had not been given the approval of the 12-member Board of Engineers that constitutes a board of directors for the fire department, or even been presented to the general membership, many of whom learned about it when they read it in the newspapers.

"We can't accept this proposal the way it came before Council," Mr. Hodge said. "We don't disagree with the concept, but it should have gone to the Board of Engineers for study, or to some objective party."

As outlined by Chief Wadsworth and Mr. Woodbridge, the proposal would simply increase the term of the fire chief from one year to three. One year just isn't enough time to do all you'd like to do, Chief Wadsworth remarked. Continuity is lost. Chief A has a project he'd like to get started. He barely gets it off the ground when Chief B takes over, with things he'd like to do. And so it goes.

But Council member Richard Macgill wasn't so sure about a three-year term.

"There wouldn't be any way to get rid of him," he said.

Mr. Macgill also pointed out that nothing in the books prevents a chief from being re-elected after his one-year term.

"It's hard to overturn a 60-year tradition," remarked Mayor Robert W. Cawley, "unless the fire department makes its own rules. Council has the power to pass such an ordinance, or the department could do it with their own by-laws."

Mr. Dupraz, who said it was the "dirtiest, underhanded thing" that members of the company had never been notified, did remark that it might indeed be wise to have a three-year term. He told Council that a man who had already been chief, had been nominated to be chief again, but lost.

Mr. Hodge, who said he wasn't aware that chiefs could be re-elected, foresaw problems of transition. He added that he was worried about subordinate officers in the companies.

"If a man has to wait 25 or 30 years to become chief—that's difficult," he said. And he expressed to Council his "urgent and fervent hope" that the governing body wouldn't misconstrue opposition to the present proposal as being divisive.

In the end, Mr. Woodbridge said he'd withdraw the proposal "if there is some assurance of movement, because the issue is serious enough to be addressed." "A 60-year tradition isn't the tablets of Moses," mused Council member Peter Bearse, "but it means a pretty good argument must be made. I'd like to see the arguments on both sides fleshed out more."

The question of a fire inspector, whether paid or volunteer, was on the June agenda of the Princeton Fire Commission, but because the Commission didn't have a quorum, it was not discussed.

Inspections have been done routinely under some chiefs, and sporadically under others, according to Mr. Woodbridge. Big institutions, like the Medical Center or "Merwick" are inspected, but not some of the smaller ones, he said.

The Commission is expected to talk about the question this fall. Members of the Fire Commission, drawn from Borough and Township, are Charles Bardwell, Reginald Hackley, Eugene McPartland, William Rodweller (next year's chief), Raymond Wadsworth (the current chief), George Griffing, Robert Mooney, Township Mayor Winthrop Pike, Ralph Hulit Jr. (last year's chief) and Marian Green.

According to Mr. Hicks, the Institute intends to place the houses far back from the road, perhaps not even visible from it, in fields owned by the institution (not the Updike and Eno farmlands.)

"They do want to keep some farming," he added, "and they don't want to have any adverse effect on either the

No organized opposition to the zoning change seems to have developed, although environmental concerns have been raised. Thomas Southerland, Princeton naturalist, admits he'd rather see the land stay as farmland and historic site, but "It's not fair to judge until we see some plans."

In the zoning that now prevails, the Institute could build single-family houses in a grid pattern on one-acre plots. With permission for multi-family dwellings, they could have put up as many as a thousand units, points out Planning Board chairman Hans K. Sander.

"It's a sensible number — 400," he says. "The Institute is willing to make a better-than-average development."

The R-3 ordinance was drawn up by Planning Board counsel Allen Porter, working with Mr. Hicks.

done advanced work at Indiana University and at Simmons College.

As Mrs. Robins puts it, the Bayard School will "carry on the tradition of a loving and a caring attitude toward the educational development of young children." Six other teachers from Miss Mason's School will continue with the new school. They are Mrs. Jane Bennett, Mrs. Carl Brown, Mrs. W. Frank Craven, Miss Cathy Gyorfi, Mrs. Richard V. Morse and Mrs. David Loerke.

An enrollment of from 30 to 50 students is expected in classes for three-year-olds, four-year-olds, kindergarten, first, second and third grade. They will be housed in temporary classrooms in two trailers which will have more than 1,500 square feet. According to Mrs. Robins, the trailers are not only spacious but also elegant — one boasts parquet floors and two bathrooms.

The next step is obtaining the necessary permits from Township zoning and planning officials and an application is already underway for the Zoning Board meeting on July 28. A meeting planned last Monday with neighbors was poorly attended because of a mix-up in the delivery of a notice, but will be re-scheduled, Mrs. Robins said. Miss Mason has given her blessing to the new endeavor by promising to contribute supplies and equipment from the old school.

"We hope to take what was really good about that school (Miss Mason's) and make it better," says Mrs. Robins.

Pending approval, the school will open its doors on September 16. Information and applications for enrollment can be obtained by calling 924-4772 or writing to The Bayard School, Lambert Drive.

COMMITTEE FORMED

To Aid Lebanon. Some 45 Princeton residents, concerned about the situation in war-torn Lebanon, have formed the Princeton Committee for Lebanon.

They are seeking contributions of funds that will be channeled through six different relief agencies, ranging from the American Red Cross, to Save the Children Federation, to the American Friends Field Service Committee (see ad elsewhere in this issue.)

They are also applying political pressure through a petition and letter-writing campaign urging the cessation of attacks using American armaments and planes. According to Fadlou Shehadi, a member of the committee, six pages of signatures to a petition were gathered in two days of manning a table at Palmer Square.

The petition addressed to President Reagan reads, "We are deeply troubled by the continuing tragedy in Lebanon where thousands of men, women and children have been killed by Israeli attacks using U.S. war planes and armaments. In the name of humanity we implore you to protect the defenseless people of Lebanon and effectively halt the use of American weapons in attacks on that country."

"We urge you to firmly support the restoration of an independent and unified Lebanon and to work for a broad peace in the Mideast that will give security to all the nations of the region and will recognize the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people."

The Princeton Committee for Lebanon plans to continue its table at Palmer Square this Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 10 to 2. Donations will be accepted, the petition will be available for signing and residents may participate in letter-writing possibilities to senators and other influential persons.

$600,000 GIFT

To University. An unrestricted gift of $600,000 has been received from The Compton Foundation, Inc., by Princeton University. The grant, which represents a major contribution to the University's $275 million campaign, is the latest of several made to the institution by the Compton Foundation.

In 1970, the foundation provided a $100,000 challenge grant for establishment of the University's World Order Studies Program. In the years since then, the foundation has donated more than $500,000 to the John Parker Compton Memorial Fund in the World Order Studies Program.

Randolph P. Compton, a member of the University's class of 1915, and his wife, Dorothy Danforth Compton, established the foundation to support programs related to global concerns: population control, human survival, environment, higher education, human and civil rights and the arts.

The fund honors the memory of the Comptons' youngest son, a member of the University's class of 1947, who was killed in World War II. The couple's two other sons were also graduates of Princeton: the late William D. Compton with the class of 1941, and James R. Compton, president of the foundation, with the class of 1944.

Commenting on the unrestricted nature of the gift, University president William G. Bowen said "It gives the University an important degree of flexibility and expresses the foundation's confidence in the overall importance of the University's programs of teaching and research."

HUD LIKES PCH SITE

And New Architect Chosen. Federal housing officials — one of them, anyway — have said the former Borough sewer field site on Elm Road would be fine for Princeton Community Housing's apartments for the elderly. The official, Mike Leposki from the Newark office, visited the site last week.

Meanwhile, PCH has signed on a new architect

"Much to our regret and theirs, the Geddes firm has had to withdraw," says PCH president Harriet Bryan. "They just couldn't take the risk a fourth time — they've already done three plans for us."

"I can't say enough about how wonderful they have been to work with — it's been most heart-warming for us all."

Jeremiah Ford, of Short & Ford, approached PCH and, in Mrs. Bryan's words, "agreed to take the risk and work for us."

PCH had hoped by now to have an extension of its September 30 HUD deadline.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week that New Jersey Congress members Millicent Fenwick and Michael Renaldo and Senator Bill Bradley are all "talking with HUD" in support of the PCH project.

The mayor said he thought PCH could clear its local approvals and come up with a project that meets HUD's approval by September 30, but he was skeptical about completion of full working drawings by that deadline.

He said he believed PCH to be in a strong position.

"They're asking HUD for an extension based on all the troubles they've had. They already have Princeton Community Village, which is a darned good show, and they have the support of Borough government. I hope HUD officials are viewing this in a responsible way. After all, HUD is interested in building housing."

PCH hopes to go before the Borough Zoning Board in July, and obtain site plan approval in September; however, the board's secretary, Frank Slimak, said this week he is having trouble gathering a quorum, in the face of summer vacation plans.

There are alternate members of the board, appointed to fill in when regular members are not available. However, one of the alternates, Letitia Ufford, is disqualified because she is a PCH board member.

TO INNER CITY

Under Stuart Auspices. Students from throughout the area, a different group each week, will gather at Stuart Country Day School starting this Sunday for a six-week inner city housing program.

Assisting skilled workers affiliated with Better Community Housing, in Trenton, the students will do electrical work, rip out interior walls, help with plumbing, sheetrocking, paneling, painting, laying carpeting, cleaning or hauling material.

They will participate in groups of six, staying at Stuart for a week, and returning there at the end of each day. In the evenings, seminars will be held on race relations, inner city problems, and philosophical questions of theology and service.

The program will be led by Jim Kilker, Stuart's director of campus ministry. It is a pilot project, according to Mr.

Painting Hangs for Years on Wall of John Street Home; Real Estate Agent Discovers It's Extremely Valuable Work

A Princeton widow living on social security may receive a $15,000 to $20,000 bonanza from the sale of a painting discovered in her John Street home by a real estate agent handling the sale of the house.

Mrs. Margaret Vansant Douglas can not remember exactly how or where she acquired the painting that caught the eye of Mrs. Anita Blanc, Princeton Crossroads realtor. She thinks her husband, a Penn Central employee, may have given it to her for their 10th anniversary in 1931, or that he acquired it in a warehouse sale of unclaimed household goods in Washington, D.C.

Although the painting was dark and dirty with age and framed in an inexpensive frame, there was something about it that attracted Mrs. Blanc as she was going through the house during negotiations for its sale. At first Mrs. Blanc thought it was a reproduction of a good, old, European painting from the brush work and how nicely it was executed. "It looked better than a print you would buy for a couple hundred dollars in a gift shop," Mrs. Blanc recalled.

As Mrs. Douglas was preparing to dispose of her furniture and move in with a sister, Mrs. Blanc cautioned her not to give the painting away before determining its value. Then in late May, going one step further, Mrs. Blanc took the painting into Christie's Park Avenue office in Manhattan for appraisal. Peter Villa, Christie's 19th century European expert, determined that the painting was by Adolf Eberly, an artist working in Munich, Germany in the late 1800's, and its value was estimated at $15,000-$20,000.

Arrangements were made to have the painting sold at auction at Christie's in October. Mrs. Douglas sold her John Street house for $48,000; this painting may bring her half again as much.

Kilker, and evolved from trips made over a period of years to Appalachia where Stuart students have worked on houses in need of repair.

Mr. Kilker's assistant will be Li Van Horn, who was graduated from Stuart in June. Barbara Ann Cagney, of the Stuart faculty, will also participate, and so will several eighth-grade students at the school.

Better Community Housing, under the auspices of Martin House and its director, the Rev. Brian McCormick, seeks to provide affordable housing for inner city residents. For several years, Stuart's campus ministry has introduced student volunteers to the inner city ministry, which was established in 1969.

Stuart girls have helped with a reading program, directed an art program and assisted Better Community Housing informally during the summer and on Saturdays.

DIXIELAND!

At Mercer County Park. Joe Scannella and the Mercer County Dixieland Six, will give a free concert this Saturday at 7 p.m. in Mercer County Park, West Windsor.

The concert is the first in a weekly series of free concerts sponsored by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Division, in cooperation with Trenton Musicians Local 62 and the Music Performance Trust Funds.

All performances will be given near the ice-skating rink. Since there is no reserved seating, early arrival is advised.

Trumpet Joe Scannella is a graduate of the Juilliard School, and has performed with leading orchestras and stars, including Bob Hope, Jerry Vale, Al Martino, Bobby Rydell and Julius LaRosa.

Others in the Dixieland Six are Lou Mercuri, guitar and banjo; Len Rucciatti, drums; Frank Herrara, bass and Pete Reichlin, trombone.

PARKING YARDS HIT

By Thieves, Vandals. Passenger cars, recreational vehicles, bicycles, and even school buses were targets of thefts and vandalism in incidents last week at parking places all over town.

The biggest haul was made at Princeton University's lot 23 located off Faculty Road, where a locked travel trailer was forced open. Stolen were three sleeping bags, valued at last Thursday at 5:10 p.m. Earlier that same day workers at the Valley Road school bus lot discovered that someone had entered the locked fence surrounding the lot and taken the fire extinguishers from nine unlocked school buses. Seven were recovered later — all empty. Two others were still missing.

$255; a movie camera, $370; two still cameras, $88; a portable generator, $350; and tools valued at $100. Total take: $1,163. The theft was reported to Township Police

Last Friday a Morrisville, Pa., resident parked her car in the Maclean Street yard at about 8 a.m. When she returned at 5:15 that evening she discovered that a cinder block had been thrown through the front windshield.

That evening a Van Dyke Road resident parked for 15 minutes in the Tutane parking yard. Someone entered the unlocked car and removed a cassette tape player, valued at $160, and 20 tapes, worth $120.

On Sunday between 5 and 5:45 p.m. a key ring and digital clock were stolen from a car parked in the doctor's lot at Princeton Medical Center. Police reported that someone also tried unsuccessfully to move the car, owned by a Hightstown resident. The items were valued at $14.

A Chestnut Street resident parked in a driveway on Stockton Street for 35 minutes Monday afternoon and returned to discover that her wallet had been taken from the front seat. It was worth $15 and contained $3 in cash. Later that afternoon police received a report that a 10-speed green bicycle had been stolen from an unlocked garage on University Place. The serial number of the bike was listed with the computerized National Crime Information Center.

COMPUTER STOLEN

From Green Hall. Given the proliferation of these contraptions and their continuing miniaturization, this report should be considered a harbinger of many more: Princeton University officials reported Monday the theft of a disc drive computer, valued at $935, from the psychology department offices in Green Hall. Police said the theft occurred sometime since June 16. No sign of forced entry was detected in the office, which had recently been fitted with new keys. The investigation was continuing. Sometime over the weekend another University building was the target of a burglary. Someone used a cutting tool to break into two vending machines in the architecture building and empty them of coins.

The Westminster Choir College, Princeton Day School, and Springdale Golf Club also were sites of thefts or malicious damage. Officials at the Choir College reported that sometime between last Monday and Saturday entrance was gained to a locked file cabinet in the student center and $475 in cash was stolen. At PDS, officials last week discovered that someone had kicked holes in the walls of the girls and boys rest rooms at the ice skating rink. Damage was estimated at $250.

The golf club was visited twice by the criminal element. Last Tuesday, June 22, an electric golf cart was reported stolen. Later that day it was discovered in a pond on the course. Damage was $350. Last Sunday morning Springdale workers discovered that a maintenance building had been entered. Missing were

Rent Ordinance Extended to February 28; Provisions Will Remain as Listed Below

The Borough's Rent Registration ordinance has been extended to February 28, 1983. Council's 5-0 vote (Nelson van den Blink absent) was taken at last Thursday's work session. The expiration date was chosen because Council does not want again to be caught in summer and fall vacations, as it has been with the June 30 expiration of the present ordinance.

These are the provisions of the ordinance:

- Landlords who want to increase their rents must first have the premises inspected by Borough health officers. The inspection is designed to uncover major violations, defined as the presence of vermin, lack of drinkable water, inadequate heating or plumbing, lack of safe electrical service or any other condition the inspecting officer believes important.

- If the house or apartment passes this health inspection, the landlord may raise the rent. The Borough has no control over the amount of the increase.

- Sometimes tenants think, rightly or wrongly, that a landlord is getting back at them for some reason. Perhaps the tenant has called the health department, or asked the state what tenant rights are, or has joined a tenants organization.

- Or the landlord may suddenly have imposed new conditions — no dog allowed, when the tenant has always had a dog; no more space to park the car, and so on.

Tenants suspicious of reprisals may confer with Linda Feldstein, the Rent Registration co-ordinator. Her job is to get landlords and tenants together so they can solve the problem themselves.

- If tenant-landlord conversations do not resolve the dispute, the tenant may take the matter to the Rent Registration Board. However, even if board members find that the landlord has indeed taken reprisals, they have no authority under the ordinance to take any action against the landlord.

Ms. Feldstein is in her Borough Hall office on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 5. The telephone is 921-7551

SEX ASSAULT CHARGED

Against Cranbury Man. Douglas Colmyer, 29, of Cranbury was charged with two counts of criminal sexual contact last Thursday night after two women in their 20s reported being assaulted by a man on Nassau Street near University Place.

A report was received first at about 9:55 p.m. by Township Police, who relayed it to Borough Police. The women said they had been walking on Nassau Street near the bus stop between University Place and Bayard Lane when a white man with a beard grabbed them, knocking both to the ground. Police responded and apprehended a man running north on Bayard Lane.

Police said that Mr. Colmyer was identified by both of the victims as well as by a witness to the attack. The defendant was issued two summonses and ordered to appear in Borough Court next July 7.

JAMES DEAN SENTENCED

For Knife Attack. James Wilson Dean of 12 Leigh Avenue, who was arrested March 9 and charged with attacking the bartender at ship Police, who relayed it to Cenerino's Restaurant with a paring knife, was sentenced last week in Township Court.

Mr. Dean, found guilty of assault, harassment, and a disorderly conduct, was sentenced to 30 days in the Mercer County Correction Center. He is being permitted to serve his time on 15 man running north on Bayard weekends.

DRUNK DRIVERS HIT
By Tougher Penalties. Two drivers charged with drunk driving received relatively harsh penalties last week in Township Court under the provisions of recently enacted state legislation. Hallett B. Janssen of 22 Gordon Avenue, Lawrenceville, was fined $515, ordered to spend 30 days in community service, and had his driver's license revoked for two years as a result of a second offense for drunk driving.

Fred E. Bayless of 9 Park Avenue, Pennington, was fined $265 and had his license revoked for six months for drunk driving.

Also appearing in Township Court was Curtis Jones, 144 Constitution Drive, who was fined $215 for driving while his license was revoked. In Borough Court this week, Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. fined Brett E. Johnson of 143 Franklin Corner Road, Lawrenceville, $530 for two charges of driving while on the revoked list.

In other traffic court proceedings, Mary L. Habgood, 13 Broadripple

Drive, was fined $80 for not reporting an accident and failure to keep to the right; David Abrahams, 108 Clover Lane, $30 for careless driving; and Philo A. Ferrante, Ridge Road, Kingston, $30 for careless driving.

FACADE CHANGE?
For New Office Building. "I hope there can be successful negotiation on the design of the facade, so we can have a nice looking building on Nassau Street. I think Al Gershen wants that, too."

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley, who emphasized that he was speaking not only as mayor but also as a member of the Planning Board with a concern for Princeton's downtown, spoke this week about Mr. Gershen's office building at 182 Nassau, next to Cox's Store.

Mr. Gershen must progress through two more squares in the board game of approval for any Princeton project. Next Tuesday, he will ask the Planning Board to give him a variance for the temporary parking lot that will be at 182 only until his new building goes up.

Then, he must conclude his site plan review with the Borough Zoning Board, where he began his presentation last Thursday. In the difficult maneuver of assembling a quorum in summertime, Zon-

"ERA" — A NEW ERA: Princeton supporters of the July 1 rally in Trenton, designed to mark "A New Day" for the Equal Rights Amendment, ready to climb aboard one of the YWCA buses that will take participants to Trenton. ing Board secretary Frank Slimak can produce either four or five members for Thursday, July 22. It's Mr. Gershen's choice, whether he will appear. He needs only a simple majority of those present to get approval for his plans, in contrast to Princeton Community Housing, for example, which must have five affirmative votes to obtain the use variance it needs.

The Planning Board and the Environmental Design Review Committee are chiefly concerned about the appearance of the front of Mr. Gershen's proposed building. Although the ground floor will be stores, the design does not show windows of the usual shop-window size, but windows as small as those for second and third floor offices. These, too, are regarded as too many for their small size. The fourth, residential floor, apparently has acceptable windows.

Thursday's Zoning Board meeting found three Planning Board representatives in the audience: members Elizabeth Hutter and Alma Field and counsel Allen Porter. They presented to the Zoning Board a memo on the Gershen building prepared by a "special ad hoc committee" of the board, consisting of chairman Hans K. Sander, vice-chairman Mrs. Hutter and Borough members Sydney Taggart and Irv Urken.

Telephone communication had obtained the approval of 11 of the Planning Board's 14 members, Mr. Porter said. The other three were not available.

Joseph Stonaker, Mr. Gershen's lawyer, protested the appearance of these Planning Board representatives and their memo without the formal authorization of that board. Mr. Porter explained that the board had expected the Gershen building to be on the July zoning agenda, rather than the June one, and he assured Mr. Stonaker that the Planning Board could give a full and formal authorization at its Monday work session.

If that were the case, Mr. Stonaker said, "my objection is meaningless," and he withdrew it. On Monday, the Planning Board did indeed ratify the memo of the ad hoc committee.

Not only that — the board decided that a supplemental memo should be shaped at next Tuesday's meeting, outlining other possible ways the facade might look, other materials that could be used.

WINDOW UNLOCKED
Home Entered. An unlocked window, a sure sign of summer, enabled a thief or thieves to enter a Butler Street residence over the weekend and make off with two strings of pearls (16 inches and 18 inches) stored in a silver box in the bedroom. The strings had gold clasps.

On Tyson Road, a home burglar alarm alerted Township Police at 9:59 p.m. last Wednesday. Patrolman John Seeley responded and discovered a broken window leading to the dining room. He detected no sign of entrance to the house, which was unoccupied at the time.

Rosedale Mills, 274 Alexander Street, was burglarized last Thursday. The building was entered through an unlocked rear window. A counter was ransacked and hedge trimmers, knives, and dog choker chains were reported stolen.

A King Street resident reported Monday the theft of $30 in cash. A screen window was removed and the house was entered through another one of those unlocked windows.

Township Police believe that a burglary may have been thwarted shortly after noon on Monday when a Princeton-Kingston Road resident returned home after a short absence. A screen had been removed from a first floor bedroom window and an attempt had been made to enter through a second floor window. No entrance was made.

Sometime in the early morning hours last Tuesday, June 22, a burglar opened a screen window of a Greenview Avenue residence, reached in, and removed two handbags from a kitchen table. The resident, who was dozing off on a couch in the next room, reported that one bag contained $50 in cash. That bag, minus the cash, was found later.

Another handbag was reported stolen the next night by a Wiggins Street resident. On the following day the bag was returned to its owner by a passerby who found it on the street. The $5 it contained was missing.

Shortly after noon last Wednesday, June 23, a Carson Road resident reported the theft of a motorcycle helmet which she had left with her moped in front of a store at 360 Nassau Street. The cyclist reported seeing a white male, age 11 or 12, running off with the helmet, which was valued at $35.

A Belle Mead resident enjoying the outdoor air of the Terrace cafe at the Nassau Inn last Friday night, reported the theft of her pocketbook, containing her wallet, checkbook, and eyeglasses. She had left the pocketbook hanging over the back of her chair while she left her table for several minutes.

A Wiggins Street resident reported that someone entered her house sometime between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. this Monday and stole $90 in cash from a drawer in a small table in the hallway. Police found no sign of a forced entry.

DRIVERS CITED

For Running Red Light. A Princeton woman escaped serious injury last Thursday evening when the car she was driving was struck by another which had allegedly passed through a red light on Bayard Lane at the corner of Paul Robeson Place.

Borough Police said that John R. Leith of Andover was driving north on Bayard Lane at 5:47 p.m. when he entered the intersection against the light and struck a car operated by Anne B. Kahn of 92 Littlebrook Road. She suffered a bump on her head and declined medical treatment, police said. Mr. Leith was issued a traffic ticket. Both cars were towed from the scene.

Gay H. Luchak of 59 Maclean Circle also escaped with few injuries when her car was struck by one that police said had failed to obey a stop sign on Cedar Lane at Prospect Avenue. She was treated for minor lacerations of the head and a bruised left leg at Princeton Medical Center and released.

Police said that Anna Troulous of 547 Meadow Road, West Windsor was driving north on Cedar Lane at 8:23 P.M. Saturday when the accident occurred. He was issued a summons. Both cars had to be towed.

Wedding Photographs Found Safe After All

This began as the saddest story.

Borough Police reported this week that a professional photographer, in Princeton to cover a wedding and reception at Prospect Garden on Sunday afternoon, had placed his camera bag and equipment on the ground while he was taking some photographs.

In the few minutes that his attention had been diverted the bag and its contents were stolen. Missing were one 35 mm. lens, a flash attachment, a battery charger, two rechargeable zinc cadmium batteries, several filters, cords, tools, a tripod, and 15 rolls of film.

The stated value of the missing property was $559, but in one way the loss could not be measured in dollars. The film, police believed, was the exposed film that had captured the joys and expectations of the new couple beginning their life together. Now, for all police knew, the film was heading with the rest of the equipment for some seedy pawn shop in Trenton or Newark or Camden—a long way from anyone's wedding album. The police were waiting only for the photographer to submit serial numbers of the equipment so that they could be entered into the National Crime Information Center.

On Tuesday a reporter for Town Topics called Prospect House to flesh out the story. Yes, a couple had been married Sunday in a beautiful outdoor ceremony in the garden. The bride was a Princeton University graduate, class of '79, from Jericho, New York. But no one had heard anything about any stolen photography equipment.

In fact, said Kris Harris, the banquet secretary at Prospect, they had been holding some equipment at their office for safekeeping, assuming that whoever left it would call for it. The police had said the photographer was from Willingboro. She checked the identification tag on the camera bag. It belonged to Don DeZottis of, yes, Willingboro.

The reporter called Mr. DeZottis in Willingboro to deliver a message: "Your film and equipment are safe in Princeton, Mr. DeZottis. And oh yes, give our congratulations and best wishes to the bride and groom."

Traveling along Route 1, the runners will leave Princeton between 8 and midnight the same day. Some of the 40-member team is to be housed in Princeton dormitories. The run will end at the United Nations in New York at 10 on July 4th.

Our Foreign Policy.

When the dollar goes up abroad, our prices come down at home.

Right now, the dollar is very strong in Europe.

What does this mean? Simply, that despite inflation, American money buys more in Europe. We search out the best buys all over the continent, and we're getting a lot more for our money than we have in years.

So is everyone else. Including our competitors.

But, unlike everyone else, we're passing the savings on to you.

After all, when our costs go up, we raise our prices. We think it's only fair to lower our prices when our costs go down.

Which is why, right now, you'll find most of our best imported furniture at truly incredible savings.

We're showing you some of our great bargains. But there are lots more, and savings range up to 34% off. So come in and look for the red dot on our price tags. It's your sign that the piece you see is specially priced to pass our savings on to you.

But we urge you to hurry. Because while we bought many things at great prices, the quantity of each shipment is limited, and who knows what will happen to the dollar, or what price we (and you) will have to pay tomorrow.

The Workbench Foreign Policy—it means treating our customers as we would want them to treat us. And if everyone had the same policy, the world might just be a little nicer place.

seven years ago by Sheldon and Lucy Hackney as the agency's highest honor to its member-clients. The Hackney Award is presented to the individual who has achieved the greatest progress towards his or her goals of independence and community participation.

Cybis Awards, presented for the first time as a result of the Cybis Company's participation in the 1982 Fantasy Auction, were made to Lynne Brown, Sandy Driver and Virginia Hackney. Community Awards were presented to Dr. Charles Ream, Dr. Elaine Panitz, Sheila Cook, Ginny Dzurkoc, Sheryl Sterling, Laurel Harvey, John Prunetti, Charlotte Rossi, Frank Ragazzo, Jay Rice, Robert Zotta, Ann Miner, Paul Kurland and Ron Wehner. Joanne Sterns was given the Art Buchwald Human Dignity Award for her work on the Fantasy Auction.

Those who received the Governors Proclamation from AAMH included Ellen Hagler, Vivian Andrews, Carol Edelman, Joyce Copleman, Pat Davis, Marge Rankin, Kathy Farrell, Rae Henderson, Sandy Engels, Joseph Santangelo, Pat Hillier and Peg Rocky.

CAMPAIGN BEGINS: Dr. David L. Holmes, director of Eden Institute, a United Way agency for children and young people with autism, accepts a check from William McGuire of the New Jersey Office of Bell Telephone. Eden has recently purchased the A.T.&T. building on U.S. 1 and Logan Drive and has launched a renovation campaign to raise $750,000 for the necessary renovations.

County residents interested in helping with this effort are urged to attend the meeting.

"Now that we have visibly demonstrated with the massive June 12 Rally how broadly and deeply the American public supports nuclear disarmament, we must continue to pressure governments here and everywhere to take concrete steps to halt and reverse the nuclear arms race," said the Rev. Robert Moore, Coordinator of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament. "The Nuclear Freeze Referendum uses the classic means of democracy to continue to build that pressure, and to let the people of New Jersey be heard on the most crucial issue now facing humanity."

The Nuclear Weapons Freeze was placed on the November ballot by vote of the New Jersey legislature and approval of Governor Kean. The New Jersey Assembly passed the bill to place the referendum on the ballot by a 70-2 vote on May 3. One week later, the New Jersey Senate passed the identical bill by a 33-3 vote. Governor Kean signed the legislation on June 10.

New Jersey is the fourth state to place the Freeze on the ballot as a referendum. The other three are Wisconsin, Rhode Island, and California. States still attempting to do so are New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Delaware, Arizona, and Oregon. In addition, numerous counties and municipalities around the country will have referenda on the Freeze.

In the first national legislative victory for the rapidly growing nuclear freeze movement, the House Foreign Affairs Committee approved a freeze resolution by a 26-9 vote. Earlier, President Brezhnev of the Soviet Union had proposed a freeze on further deployment of nuclear weapons once the Strategic Arms Reductions (START) talks begin on June 19.

"These recent developments show that the enormous groundswell of public opinion for nuclear disarmament is already having national and international impact. We must continue to maintain and expand that groundswell until actual policies and weapons systems are stopped," commented Mr. Moore.

Want Free Compost?

Take a pick-up truck to the Borough's old sewer field off Elm Road July 7 and 8 and load it with free decomposed leaves, dumped there by the Borough in far-off times. Hours are 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day. There is a driveway in from Elm opposite Westerly Road. The pick-up truck is a requirement set by the Borough engineer's office, so don't try to get by with sedan or stationwagon. Incidentally, the Borough prefers the term "northwest storage area" to "sewer field," but it's the same place.

PRINCETON SAVINGS & LOAN HAS MERGED WITH SECURITY SAVINGS & LOAN FOR ONE VERY IMPORTANT REASON.

YOU.

The success of any bank or savings & loan depends largely on its most important asset.

The customer.

Which is why a smart financial institution will continually seek ways to do more for its clients.

And that's why we're so pleased to announce the merger of Princeton Savings & Loan with Security.

We believe the marriage of these two organizations will allow us to offer you more of the things you need to prosper financially today.

More resources. More service. And most important more ideas. Which, incidentally happen to be one of Security's strong points.

You'll be hearing more about those ideas and products in the days ahead.

But right now we want to tell you a little about Security.

Founded in 1873, Security has grown from a one-office savings & loan in Vineland to become the 7th largest state-chartered savings & loan in New Jersey with over 18 offices in 8 counties.

Just last year we were ranked as the most profitable savings & loan in our assets category. And during the first six months of this year, we once again posted a profit.

So if you're a present Princeton Savings & Loan customer, we welcome you to the Security family. We're going to do all we can to deliver the kind of service you would expect from a leader in the financial services market.

And if you're not a present Princeton customer we invite you to meet the talented people at the Princeton Division of Security Savings.

You're going to be hearing a lot about them.

EUROPEAN EARWIG

European earwigs are abundant and active inside and outside area homes right now, posing a nuisance everywhere.

Earwigs have damaged several bedding plants, particularly dwarf marigolds and young zinnias. They also feed on vegetables, ripe fruits, and insects (including fleas). It seems their insect-feeding benefit may outweigh their damage while outside. However, their presence inside is objectionable because of their appearance and strong odor.

To prevent them from entering your house, the foundation and surrounding soil should be treated with an appropriate insecticide. Outside nuisances can be reduced by using household aerosol sprays for flying insect control.

holds an M.Ed. degree in counseling psychology and a B.S. in education, both from Temple University. Her husband, Arthur A. Sugarman, M.D., is a staff psychiatrist at Carrier.

2 COMPLETE TRAINING in Divorce Mediation.

Mercer County residents Claire Fishman of 56 Marion Road and Valerie Sasserath of Hopewell have completed training in divorce mediation sponsored by the New Jersey Council on Divorce Mediation. The five-day course is designed to teach mental health practitioners and attorneys the techniques used in divorce mediation, an alternative to the traditional adversarial divorce process.

Ms. Fishman is a psychologist with offices in Princeton and North Brunswick, and is visiting associate professor at the Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology at Rutgers University.

Dr. Sasserath is a licensed psychologist with offices in the Princeton area.

In divorce mediation, the parties meet with a neutral mediator to evaluate their needs and long-term objectives. The mediator guides them into equal participation in negotiations and decision-making, and leads the couple into agreement on such issues as support, child custody and visitation, and division of property.

Separating or divorcing couples are invited to inquire about mediation at the offices of the New Jersey Council on Divorce Mediation in Upper Montclair. The Council is a statewide non-profit organization devoted to promoting mediation as an alternative to the traditional adversarial divorce system. The Council maintains a list of professionals specially trained in the techniques of mediation, and has devised standards for the profession.

HOSPICE INFORMATION

Available at Agency.
"Hospice, as a different way to care for the dying and their families, is one of the most dynamic movements in the health care field today," states Maureen Eng, director of Hospice Consultation Services of the Home Health Agency Assembly of New Jersey, in describing the Hospice Orientation Seminars held during May at the Center for Health Affairs here.

The Hospice Orientation Seminar series which met one day a week for five weeks, was sponsored by the Consultation Service in cooperation with the New Jersey Hospice Organization and received major funding from the New Jersey Division, Inc. of the American Cancer Society.

Attended by members of hospice teams from all over New Jersey, the seminars covered many aspects of hospice care. Nurses, religious leaders, physicians, educators and other professionals skilled in the hospice concept of care addressed the sessions. Such issues as historical perspectives of death, philosophy of hospice care, symptom control, family counseling and dynamics, concepts of death, dying and grief, ethical and legal issues and management of self stress were discussed.

There are presently 24 active hospice programs in New Jersey, operating out of home health and community agencies and hospitals with six more being developed.

The concept of hospice dates back to medieval times where it meant a place of rest and hospitality for the weary traveller. Today it represents a special kind of care for the dying person, focusing attention on that person's comfort and support when heroic medical intervention is no longer needed. The patient experiences the last days of life in a pain-free environment of peace, acceptance and dignity.

As a cooperative program of care extending physical, emotional and spiritual support, patients remain at home with their families and among familiar surroundings during the last days of life. Hospice extends beyond the patient and includes the family, continuing supportive care during the difficult time of bereavement.

Ms. Eng reports that, because of the overwhelming response to the seminar series, a similar series is being planned for the fall. The Service hopes to be able to offer the seminars to everyone, professional and non-professional, who has expressed an interest in learning more about the hospice movement.

Call Senator Brady.

New Jersey's newest United States Senator, Nicholas Brady, announced this week that he now has a toll-free telephone number so that constituents can reach his state office in Newark.

The number is 800-962-1227.

In a fine spirit of bipartisanship, Republican Senator Brady has his Newark offices in the Peter Rodino Federal Building, 970 Broad Street, Room 939A. Mr. Rodino is a Democratic Congressman.

The Hospice Consultation Service under the direction of the Home Health Agency Assembly of New Jersey is funded by a grant from the William Lightfoot Schultz Foundation and provides assistance to newly-forming hospice programs in the state, conducts continuing educational programs for hospice care providers and serves as an information and referral source for those interested in locating hospice programs in their area.

The office, located at the Center for Health Affairs, 760 Alexander Road, maintains a toll free number, 800-582-5969 for those wishing further information about hospice.

Sprawling Complex of Mercer County Park Provides Great Recreational Variety

The 2700-acre Mercer County Park has matured from 42 farms and other properties into a comprehensive recreational park. The sprawling complex off Old Trenton Road in West Windsor now features year-round facilities for children and adults and for active as well as passive recreation. The old farms now serve as the source of enjoyment for thousands of visitors a year.

Through the U.S. Soil Conservation, Federal Housing and Urban Development and New Jersey State Green Acres funds, plus limited county money, the commission acquired the farmland from 1965-1975 as part of the Assumpink Flood Control project.

Today, the Mercer County Park contains a new 26-court outdoor tennis complex, an ice skating center, nine softball fields, four soccer fields, championship baseball fields, 18 basketball halfcourts, jogging, nature and biking trails and the 300-acre Lake Mercer (future site of the Boating Center).

The Mercer County Public Outdoor Tennis Center is a terraced facility which sits above Lake Mercer on the south side of the park. The center was designed by Princeton architect E. Harvey Myers, and the courts were built in an all-weather acrylic cushioned finish.

Clubhouse Facilities. The timberform four-level clubhouse provides for observation of all 26 courts with its three patio decks. Permanent seating for the tournament courts, a pro shop, locker rooms, office and storage space, maintenance rooms, lounges and a snack area are also included in the clubhouse.

Another sport which is rapidly becoming a great spectator sport is ultimate frisbee, a game of skill at passing, catching and maneuvering the now-famous plastic disc down a football-size field. Often drawing more fans than the softball games, the contests are held on a section of the park that allows for up to four games to be played simultaneously.

Fall Sports. While softball and frisbee generally keep the parks busy during the summer, soccer takes over in the fall. There are now nine teams in the Men's Soccer League and six in the Women's Soccer League.

Kite-flying and model airplanes are also a favorite activity of the regular park-goers.

When November rolls around, many people turn to the Mercer County Public Skating Center for their recreation. The skating center has more than 20 two-hour open public skating sessions, many hours of group and private instruction, school and group rates, group private parties, adult and family sessions and hockey leagues for youngsters and adults.

Dog Shows Too. The Olympic-size rink, 200' by 85', has newly-painted face-off circles, blue lines and a new kickplate. The center is open from November through March for skating and doubles during the off-season as the site for the annual Mercer county 4-H Fair and the Trenton Kennel Club All Breeds Dog Show; these events draw thousands of spectators and participants to the park each year.

Just in front of the skating center is the beginning of the marked four-kilometer (approximately three miles) cross country skiing trail which incorporates two shorter routes for beginners.

For boating and fishing enthusiasts, the commission expects to build a boating facility on the banks of Lake Mercer that will include canoe and sailboat rentals, a large boating ramp, a snack bar and an observation patio. At the two extreme ends of the lake will be large picnic areas, one located near a stream and the other with a scenic view of most of the lake.

In addition to the facilities for the active recreation enthusiasts, Mercer County Park also offers more passive recreation for the nature lover. Old farmers' trails, for example, will be converted into roughly five miles of marked nature trails on both sides of the lake. The trails will take people lakeside, through wooded areas and open fields, providing excellent opportunities for alert hikers to observe several species of plants, animals and birds.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

HOW TO KEEP WASPS AND BEES AWAY FROM YOUR LAWN TREES

Bees and wasps are sometimes attracted to lawn trees in such annoying numbers that they become hazardous to children and adults trying to enjoy outdoor living.

Don't always blame the bees and wasps. The real culprits may be aphids, mealybugs and certain scale insects that are already on the trees. These pests excrete honeydew on which bees and wasps feed because it's sweet and nutritious.

Get rid of the honeydew-makers by spraying the trees. Once the aphids and mealybugs are under control, the bees and wasps will go away.

Periodic inspection of trees is helpful in preventing aphids, scale pests and mealybugs from building up. Aphids tip off their presence by tree "rain." This rain consists of droplets of honeydew that roll from leaf to leaf and fall as a fine mist. The sticky goo can dapple a car beneath an aphid infested maple, linden, tulip or beech. Trees can be weakened by heavy infestations and should be revived with "deep root" applications of liquid fertilizer.

Howley C. Waterman II of Snowden Lane has graduated from Western Maryland College.

Jonathan A. Fabian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tibor Fabian, 215 Brookstone Drive, was awarded a bachelor of arts degree at the 11th annual spring commencement at Hampshire College.

Three area residents have graduated from Oberlin College. They are Sabrina B. Barton, daughter of Mrs. Erica Barton of East Mountain Road, Belle Mead, who received a bachelor of arts with honors in English and the Margaret Goodwin Meachim Prize for distinction in English for Women; Michael A. King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. King, 122 Linden Lane, bachelor of arts in studio art and art history, a double major; and Kevin D. McClure, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. McClure, 23 Hemlock Circle, bachelor of music in organ from the Oberlin Conservatory of Music.

Miss Barton, a graduate of Princeton Day School, studied in Oberlin's Semester Abroad program as a junior and will be a teaching assistant in that program for the first semester of 1982-83. Mr. King and Mr. McClure are graduates of Princeton High School, class of 1978 and 1977, respectively.

Five Princeton residents were awarded bachelors degrees at Ithaca College's 87th commencement exercises in May.

The graduates and their degrees include Sabrina K. Plante, daughter of Dr. Inge Plante of Box 1000, bachelor of arts in chemistry, cum laude, with department honors and a

Mr. Wilson, who will be a member of the staff of the college for one year, was graduated in 1978 from Princeton High School. Mr. Haitch, who received his degree summa cum laude and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, is an alumnus of Princeton Day School. CHEAPER COLOR?
RCA Has New TV Tube. A new color television picture tube system designed to lower the overall manufacturing cost of a color TV set and improve its performance and reliability, has been announced by RCA.

Sampling of the tube will start in July. Production is set for next year. RCA says the system employs a new color tube design concept that can be used for all tube sizes from 13 inches to 25 inches, as well as tubes described by RCA technicians as those with 90-degree through 110-degree deflection angles.

Customers who may not be able to work their way through the technical description, will nevertheless find a color set with sharper pictures and a longer operating life because of lower operating voltage, according to RCA.

The COTY-29 (Combined Optimum Tube and Yoke in a 29-millimeter neck), is being developed in RCA's laboratories in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, but scientists in Princeton's RCA labs are also making "substantial contributions."

JOINS AD AFFILIATE Agency Accepted.
Princeton Partners, Inc., 245 Nassau, has been accepted as an affiliate of the Mutual Advertising Agency Network (MAAN). Peter Petraglia and Catherine Mathis, principals in Princeton Partners, said the new affiliation will extend PP's capability in terms of nationwide survey, sampling and marketing, and will also allow more contact with agencies throughout the country. The two principals said they will attend meetings three times a year at various locations throughout the country, to exchange ideas and discuss advertising strategies.

Princeton Partners, formed more than 15 years ago, provides advertising, marketing, direct marketing, public relations and corporate communications services.

GULTON REPORTS
On First Quarter. Gulton Industries Inc., 101 College Road East, earned $593,000, or 19 cents per common share, on sales of $39,424,000 for the first quarter of 1982, chairman Walter F. Gips Jr. reported last week at the company's annual meeting. This compares with earnings of $1,256,000 or 42 cents a share in the comparable period last year, Mr. Gips said. He attributed the decline to decreases in orders in Graphic Instruments, controller operations in this country and Electro-Voice operations in Germany.

Gulton is cutting back on expenses and personnel throughout the corporation, he said, but will not retrench on "critical research and development expenditures we deem vital to our future."

The firm is in "a strong position," Mr. Gips continued, "with a current ratio of 2.1 to 1, and long-term debt at only 29 percent of total capitalization." Although Gulton is borrowing $3.2 million of short-term bank debt, he said, the company plans to eliminate that debt for at least 30 days later this summer.

Gulton specializes in electronic instrumentation and controls, communications equipment and power and lighting products. Its basic markets are in the fields of energy, commercial and consumer audio, metals and mining, public utility, aerospace, process control and transportation.

Bancorp's directors said this makes 1982 the sixth consecutive year of increases in common stock. The stock, based on the June 18 closing price of 14 1/8, now yields 9.9 per cent.

The directors also declared the regular dividend of 75 cents per share on preferred stock. Both dividends are payable August 1 to shareholders of record on July 16.

Five area churches will join with the First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill in a special service this Sunday at 10 in celebration of the Rocky Hill Church's 125th anniversary. The church is on Washington Street, Rocky Hill.

The Griggstown, Blawenburg and Harlingen Reformed Churches will take part in the special service, as will Montgomery Township United Methodist Church and the Bunker Hill Lutheran Church. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Robert Sletta of Bunker Hill Lutheran who will give a sermon entitled "The Declaration of Dependence." The Rev. Wilbur Ivins of the to Sunday afternoon and met in the Rocky Hill public school, across the street from the present church. The Rev. William Barton and Isaac Platt were the first male superintendents, and students from Princeton Theological Seminary served as superintendents in the years following. Prayer meetings led by elders from neighboring churches were added and held after the Sabbath School sessions.

Interest waxed with the Christian revival movement in the country as a whole but waned in 1847 when the school was closed for six weeks. Prayer meetings continued, however, and preaching services were instituted. By 1855 there was sufficient interest in the building of a Dutch Reform Church for a committee to be formed under the chairmanship of the Rev. Peter LaBach.

The property across the street from the school was purchased in 1856 for $300 from Thomas J. Skillman and adjoining property which became Church Street (now Reeve Road) was donated by Samuel Braerly and David Mount. Foundation work began on a new church designed by Henry W. Laird of Princeton in September, 1857, and the spire was completed 127 days later in December. The total cost of the church and its furnishings came to $4,741.75.

The group that started as a Sabbath School submitted its application to the Philadelphia Classis for formal recognition and received its charter May 1, 1857. The formal dedication ceremony was held on June 10 of that year. The 34 charter members included Vreeland, Saums, Stout and Crusier families -- names still familiar in this area.

The finishing touch for the church proper was the placement on July 25, 1857, of the 700-pound bronze bell which still rings from the steeple. The first pastor was the Rev. Martin L. Schenck who began his ministry at the end of August, 1857.

The following year the parsonage was constructed at a cost of $2,300 and a chapel for the Sabbath School, which had been meeting in public school across the street, for $2,500.

Harmonic Progression

Early music was provided by a trio consisting of a flute, bass viola and violin. A small organ was purchased in 1880 and occupied a prominent position in the front of the church for the next 40 years. The church history notes that the wind required to produce its music was supplied by a small boy concealed at the side of the organ, pumping away.

The present organ is a two-manual Austin with nine stops and five ranks of pipes that is still in service. Mrs. Mildred Robbins Harms was organist from 1925-36 and again from 1941 to the mid-1960's for a total of 35 years. Alma Lewis Macdonald began as organist while still in high school and took over again in 1970. There seems to have been some sort of choir since the first one was begun in 1857, but the numbers and sizes have changed many times since then.

Currently there are two choirs, the Genesis Singers for all grades up to high school and the Chancel Choir for adults. Deborah Young Cook, part of a family that has had a four generation membership in the church, is the present choir director.

Enrollment in the Sabbath School hit an all-time high of 106 in 1885-86 when the Sabbath School Board included 15 teachers, a librarian and assistants and some 363 volumes in the library by 1897, 80 years after the founding of the Sabbath School, 89 were enrolled with an average attendance of 57.

Familiar names appear throughout the Sabbath School and later Sunday School records -- names like Mary Barrowman (later to become Mary Jacobs for whom the Rocky Hill library was named) Dr. Malvern Reeve, the family doctor who lived to be 101 and was feted by the whole town on his 100th birthday; Otto T. Young Sr. and Irving Robbins who at 92 is still a member of the church. Alfred H. Merritt of the insurance agency family served as superintendent for more than 25 years.

Many Traditions. Among service activities and organizations was the Christian Endeavor Society formed in 1889 which remained active into the 1930's. Another group was the "Bluebirds," young women who met weekly and were involved in the establishment of traditions such as the annual Christmas Bazaar and the presenting of carnations to the women of the church on Mother's Day. The Harvest Home dinners in the fall and Sunday School picnics in the spring are also happily remembered traditions.

Over its 125 year history, the First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill has been served by some 23 pastors most of whom served from two to four years and few more than five. The notable exception was the Rev. Frank J. Bahr, an engineer with General Electric for 23 years before entering New Brunswick theological Seminary. Mr. Bahr served Rocky Hill as a student assistant and stayed on after his ordination.

After 13 years of a ministry by the quality of pastoral care to youth, the sick, the troubled and the alcoholic, Mr. Bahr accepted a call to an upstate New York Reformed Church. A few days before the planned move, he was killed in a tragic highway accident. As the history of the church notes, his life and work will long be remembered by the people he knew

OBITUARIES

Richard H. Sullivan 159 Philip Drive vice president, finance, and treasurer of Carnegie Corporation of New York and former president of Reed College, Portland, Oregon, died June 21 at Princeton Medical Center after an extended illness. He was 64 years old.

Mr. Sullivan joined Carnegie Corporation in February, 1970, to work in the foundation's higher education program. In 1976 he became its chief financial officer, while continuing his program work in higher education, concerned mainly with the strengthening of research libraries.

From 1967 to 1969 he was president of the Association of American Colleges in Washington, D.C., and then was managing director of the American Book Publishers Council. Prior to joining the AAC he was president of Reed College for 11 years.

Mr. Sullivan was widely regarded within the higher education community as a "superb educator" and "institution builder." Between 1946 and 1956 he was assistant director of the College Entrance Examination Board and executive vice president and treasurer of the Educational Testing Service.

Mr. Sullivan was born in Arcanum, Ohio, and was president of the student council at Marietta, Ohio, high school. He attended Harvard College on a national scholarship and graduated magna cum laude in 1939. He received an M.A. degree from Harvard University's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and was working as assistant dean at the College in 1941-42 when he left to serve three and one-half years as a Naval intelligence officer in Washington, D.C., and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Mr. Sullivan's contributions to the field of higher education, particularly his strong commitment to liberal arts education, are recognized in his numerous honorary degrees from liberal arts colleges. He served on the board of trustees of The Common Fund where he was also a member of the investment committee. From 1966 to 1972 he was a member of the National Science Board and was also a director of the John and Mary Markle Foundation, a trustee of the Committee for Economic Development and chairman of the Foundation Center.

In addition, he was chairman of the Advisory Commission of the National Study of Independent Schools and on the board and executive committee of the College Retirement Equities Fund. His many regional and community activities include chairmanship of the Oregon Graduate Center for Study and Research and of the Oregon Colleges Foundation.

As a foundation officer, Mr. Sullivan was instrumental in establishing and gaining multi-foundation support for the Research Libraries Group, a cooperative undertaking of the major research libraries in the nation.

Mr. Sullivan is survived by his wife, the former Jean Elizabeth Fox; a sister, Mrs. Joan Bryant of Denver, Colo., and three children, Mrs. Barbara Whitson, Mrs. Mary Ragen, and Richard P. Sullivan, as well as six grandchildren, all of Seattle, Wash.

There will be a private service for the family. Memorial gifts may be sent to Reed College, Portland, Ore., 97202.

William Bryce Thompson 111, 79, of 195 Nassau Street, died June 27 at the Foothill Acres Nursing Home in Neshanic.

Mr. Thompson was born in Chattanooga, Tenn., and had lived for 50 years in Princeton where he was associated with Thompson Land Co. He graduated from the Webb School in Bel Buckle, Tenn., and was an antique dealer specializing in silver and an avid fisherman.

Husband of the late Doris Golden, he is survived by two sons, W. Bryce IV and John G. Thompson, both of Princeton; a brother, Paul of Chattanooga; two sisters, Sally Tolley of Chattanooga and Mary England of Sumerville, Ga.; and two grandchildren.

The service and burial will be held Thursday afternoon in Valley Head, Ala.

Alice L. Lemmon, 72, of 161 Texas Avenue, Lawrence, died June 26 at her son's home in Lawrence.

Born in New York City, she had been a Lawrence resident for 12 years and had lived formerly in the Rocky Hill area. She retired in 1977 after 10 years as an electronics technician for Princeton Applied Research.

She was a member of the Lawrence Township Senior Citizens Club, the Lawrence Township Historical Society and the Delaware Raritan Girl Scout Council.

Surviving are two daughters, Pat Schannel, with whom she resided, and Jeanne Trayah, both of Lawrence; two sons, George of Cranbury and John T. of Lawrence; a niece, Josephine Lees of New York; and seven grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church with burial in Princeton Cemetery. Arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Lawrence Township First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Melvin J. Prater, an employee of Princeton University for 20 years, died June 24 in Helene Fuld Medical Center. He was 55 and lived at 135 Texas Avenue, Lawrence Township.

Volunteer Fire Companies Find It a Hard Day's Work Fighting Serious Fires in Training Exercises in Burlington

"THERE'S A FIRE IN THERE AND WE GOTTA PUT IT OUT!" Princeton's firefighters practice their craft on two specially-constructed buildings at the Burlington County Fire School. Left: smoke pours out, as firemen inside ventilate the burning room; right: instructors prepare to haul a bale of hay to the top floor of this high-rise where it will be ignited to provide the practice fire.

The smoke is thick. In a sudden attack, it sends a hundred sharp needles into your eyes. You're as close to the dark floor as you can get, surrounded by a black smothering blanket. You hear the whoosh as water surges from the hose. Your helmet and coat keep you dry.

"If you think you're going to be sick, get out." The flat voice of the instructor filters through the smoke.

But no fireman leaves. The ground-level outside door is within reach of a hand. The hose plays on. The instructor drones on. There are coughs. But no fireman leaves.

"You can be a full-fledged fireman in Princeton, yet never have fought a real fire," says Fire Chief Raymond Wadsworth. "For one guy today, this was a brand new experience. For others, they've had only limited exposure."

"In a big city, you could fight all kinds of fires in only a week. In a town like Princeton, the men don't have a chance to get into certain conditions of fire-fighting."

reporters were invited to join about 15 men from Princeton's three volunteer fire companies in an all-day training exercise at the Burlington County Fire School. Although the school dates back to a 1974 $700,000 bond issue floated by Burlington, this was the first time any Princeton firefighters had gone there for training and practice.

"My training budget was cut in half — from $1,000 to $500," Chief Wadsworth said ruefully. "It costs $100 to come down here to Burlington."

Chief Wadsworth took the younger men to Burlington. They may not have had a chance to experience smoke, swirling blackness, the crackling reality of a fire. They are trained, of course, working with the foremen of the three companies. They also go to night school in Trenton, and must put in the required number of hours.

But a classroom isn't the same.

The Burlington Fire School campus looks like an amusement park in a horror movie. There is a five-story brick and concrete high-rise, black with char on the inside, its stairwells acrid with ancient smoke. A duplex brick house, a gutted ruin except for its sturdy interior walls, invites the next fire. Burned-out cars, in a row, have gone up in flames often, and will again. A square pond, when you pour oil on its water, is a ready-made laboratory. You could even practice roof-top rescue with a battered helicopter.

There is a special "smoke house," but it's out of commission temporarily. In a fit of irony, it was seriously damaged by fire. The small building, made of brick like all the others, had a plywood labyrinth inside. Its platforms and doors were designed to train firemen how to find their way when there is no way to be seen. (Using either your right hand or your left — but never switching, once you've chosen — feel your way around every corner.)

The first exercise was on the high-rise. Using a rope to haul up bales of hay donated by Rosedale Mills, firemen and the Burlington instructors started a brisk blaze on the top floor. While the arsonists were at work, the first team of men on the grass down below began to suit up, buckling up their coats, pulling on the tall rubber boots, adjusting the new Scott Air-pak masks and securing the new hard-hat helmets that can even protect you from a falling beam, unlike the old-fashioned fireman's hat.

These new masks, by the way, are 20 pounds lighter than the old ones, with a tank that provides more compressed air, even though it is smaller.

An Air-pak lasts 30 minutes, 20 if you're breathing heavily. A bell gives you a three-to-five-minute warning that you need another tank of air. When you hear it, you make your way out of the building, groping through the smoke and the dark by following the fire hose. You get new compressed air from the First Aid and Rescue Squad truck, present at Burlington as at all fires.

The first team of four, led by an experienced foreman from one of the companies, enters the burning building and climbs the stairwells to the floor below the fire. Here, they hook their hose into the stand-pipe and get to work.

After the fire is out, they emerge from the ground-floor door. They roll up their hose carefully. They fill their Air-paks to get ready for the next "fire", and the second team moves in on the newly-ignited hay.

Princeton's firemen put out fires together. You may be working with somebody from your company, maybe not. The traditional rivalry among Princeton Engine No. 1

(Chestnut Street Firehouse), Mercer Engine No. 3 (Chambers Street Firehouse) and Hook and Ladder (North Harrison Street Firehouse) does not carry into the burning building.

Next exercise (the Burlington instructor says they call it, for no reason he knows, an "evolution") is a cellar fire.

For this one, they move into the duplex brick house, laying straw down the stairs and on the cellar floor. Firemen, again in teams, enter from the outside. Wearing their masks, they make their way through the fire and down into the cellar.

Suddenly, in this exercise, one man appears at the head of the outside stairs. Another fireman is with him. The man holds the stair-railing and slowly makes his way to the bottom. Chief Wadsworth runs over, takes the man's arm and leads him to a seat on the moist grass.

"He'd used up his air," the chief explains. But he's back in action, for the next drill.

The duplex house is a macabre kind of fun-house. Myriad small rooms ... turning hallways ... an elevator shaft ... closets everywhere ... narrow walls concealing an electrical fire ... a burnt

Gourmet-Topf
THE POT WITH TRADITION

The porousness of the pot is the secret to "wet-clay" cooking. Gourmet-Topf has no glaze or sealed surface like most other cooking products. As the steam and juices come out of your food they go into the pores of the clay. The hot porous clay "breathes" and forces them back into and through the food. This circulation process between the clay and food is continuous during cooking, leaving your meal moist, delicious and nutritious!

ADVANTAGES OF COOKING IN CLAY

DELICIOUS MEALS — achieved by foods cooking in their own natural juices, preserving their natural flavor while removing bitterness. All foods come out moist, and meat will be fork tender.

NUTRITIOUS FOODS — the nutrients, vitamins and minerals are maintained by the foods steaming in their own natural juices. Meals are healthier!

NON-FAT COOKING — You will see the natural fats in meats, poultry, pork, etc. in the bottom of your Gourmet-Topf, leaving the food low in fat and cholesterol.

LIQUID-FREE COOKING — No oil, fat or water need be added for most every dish (sauces, wine, etc. may be used if desired). Good for those on low-cholesterol or other special diets.

EASY, ONE-STEP COOKING — achieved by simply placing your vegetables in the same pot with your meat, poultry, or other entire item, excluding fish. No preheating. This "all-in-one" cooking method saves energy.

FULL RANGE OVEN COOKING —
450°-500° for roasting and "wet clay" cooking
325°-350° for casseroles and baking
200°-250° for slow cooking

NewStage Opens Season with Scapino! A Hyperactive Variation on a Moliere Farce

Princeton has a summer theatre again. In place of the late lamented Summer Intime — in its very place, that is, in the airconditioned Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus — is NewStage, which despite its run-together, not terribly original name, is NotBad NewStage opened its maiden season last Thursday night with "Scapino!" the lively comedy by Frank Dunlop and Jim Dale that was produced on Broadway during the 1974-75 season. The play is based on Moliere's 1671 farce, "The Adventures of Scapin," and is set at a dockside pizza parlor in Naples (designed by Bob Stein).

This production is directed by Sherry Long, and the madcap aspect of the comedy is so heightened that the show is at times as unwieldy as it is wild. At its best, however, it is hilarious.

The plot itself is pure farce: two rich, mean, and miserly fathers — costumed by Elsbeth Collins and played by Mark Warren Moede and Mark Schaeffer with similarities that make it hard to distinguish them — each have a son of marriageable age. Argante wants his son, Ottavio (Kevin Groome) to marry Geronte's daughter, sight unseen. But while his father was away on business, Ottavio, a moony romantic type, has fallen in love with and married a waif in search of her long lost and supposedly wealthy father. Jessica Weigmann plays this lovely girl clad in white; her looks — if not her acting — bring Meryl Streep to mind.

Meanwhile, Geronte's son, the exuberant Leandro (Stephen Oates Smith), has become smitten with a somewhat brassy gypsy, Zerbinetta (Julia Poulos), whose release he must buy for 500,000 lira in order to prevent her from being taken away by the rest of her band. Both fathers are furious with their sons for what they perceive to be the ultimate act of filial disobedience — wanting to marry nobodies, and for love rather than for profit, to boot — and they threaten to disown their offspring.

That the girls aren't nobodies is only revealed later, but in the meantime,

Broadway and was probably played by Moliere himself in the original French farce. Here it is played by Lawrence Robinson, who is dapper, suave, and slick but not too slick in his white suit and squishable hat.

He takes obvious delight in his ability to don accents, mimicking both fathers, an Oriental, and a British officer, among others. He is particularly funny when he connives to "hide" Geronte in a sack and then give him a beating by pretending to be various foreigners who are supposedly out to get the old man. As the Chinaman he nearly slips by saying "Ciao," then quickly recovers by adding "Main." And he deservedly gets one of the biggest laughs of the evening with his delivery of the "British officer's" line, "Either you tell us where to find that chap Geronte -- or we'll attack your sack."

The show is filled with funny anomalies like cowboy Sylvestro (David Wiedis) and his expletive, "Mama Leonel" and Scapino's references to Women's Wear Daily and "witni." But not all of the humor quite comes off in this at times slightly strained and muddled production. (I am thinking specifically of the restaurant scenes with the do-nothing semi-idiotic waiter and waitress (William Hollister and Rebecca Kramer) and the pesty rear-end pinching Carlo (Michael Ayres) who are repeatedly shoed along by the head waitress (Sharon Kelly). In addition, the nurse (Ted Gagliano), who seems to have wandered in from a Triangle Show, could have been funnier.

The most successful scenes in this production of "Scapino!" are those that use music, including the inane opening number, a menu sung with all the longing of a romantic lament; its plaintive lyrics begin, "Pollo americana" and end with "avocado vinegraitte." But the real show-stopper is the chase scene, in which Leandro attacks Scapino with a salami. This is farce at its most slapstick and wonderful, heightened as it is by Debbie Gobetz's allegro playing on the piano, and culminating in a brilliantly choreographed duel set to tango music. You can see this mad chase -- along with the rest of "Scapino!" -- July 1-4 at Murray Theatre.

Post 76 Gains in American Legion League Standings; Wins Six Straight but Loses to Top-Ranked Hamilton

"We really wanted to win that one," said Princeton Post 76 coach Pete Millington, after his team had lost its awaited confrontation with first-place Hamilton.

Previously, Princeton had won six in a row to make a run in the Mercer County American Legion league standings; Hamilton was 13-1 and threatening to make it strictly a race for second place before the season was half over.

Princeton may have wanted it but it never came close to getting it. Hamilton shelled Post 76 with a 16-hit attack, driving starter Judd Petrone from the mound with seven runs in the third inning to take a 9-1 lead. The final was 21-7 Hamilton.

It was Black Sunday for pitchers throughout the league, as hitters exploded a week before the Fourth. Hopewell pounded Mitchell-Davies, 16-10; Broad St. Park hammered Bordentown, 17-7, and Hightstown clubbed Lawrence, 16-4.

What happened after Princeton had stunned Ewing, 11-0, defeated Broad Street Park, 8-5, and Bordentown, 4-2, earlier in the week, — beating three teams that had beat Princeton earlier this year?

"Our starting pitcher didn't do well and we are thin in the bull pen," explained Millington. "Nine-inning games are long games; we didn't want to waste another pitcher."

Saying he was concerned about the pressure on the mound staff, Millington added that the pitching breakdown was possibly the result of playing a lot of games with not much time off.

"The way I look at it," summed up Millington, "it's no worse than losing, 2-0. A loss is a loss." Indeed, this one will be a lot easier to forget than the one-run loss in 14 innings to Hamilton in their first meeting.

Millington was not discouraged. "After six wins, we're in real decent shape," he said. "We just have to pick it up again. We've beat teams that had beaten us before and that's important."

Post 76 with a 7-6 record has climbed to fifth spot in the standings with 14 points. Hamilton has 28 and Hightstown and Broad Street, with 10 wins apiece, each have 20. Ewing is in fourth place with a 9-3-1 record and 19 points.

All Star Game Friday. The mid-season Legion All-Star game, comprised of the top players selected by the team coaches, will be held Friday evening at 7:30 at the Eggers Crossing diamond, the home field of Lawrence Post 414. Traditionally, the teams from Trenton and Hamilton have been considered the "city" team while those from Princeton, Hopewell, Lawrence, Hightstown and Bordentown have been the source for the All-Star "country" team.

SPORTS

In Princeton

Before that, Post 76 will oppose Mitchell-Davis Post 182 this Wednesday at 5:45 at the Trenton High diamond. It will resume League action Tuesday in a game at Hightstown Post 148.

2 Triples for Porreca

Princeton did not roll over for Hamilton at Clarke Field Sunday. It raked three Hamilton hurlers for 14 hits, including four triples, two by shortstop Scott Porreca and one each by Keith Ender and Chris Hunninghake.

Ender, since he hurt his finger and had to be DH'd for a few games, has been on a hitting tear. The first baseman had two hits against Hamilton which gave him 11 in his last 21 at bats.

Hamilton bunched its hits. After routing Petrone with seven in the third it came back with six more in the fourth off reliever Bill Feus.

Feus did little in his struggle to regain his confidence. He couldn't find the plate, Hamilton got some "seeing-eye" hits, and the losers contributed to the debacle with some errors, something it hadn't done in its previous wins.

"It was a combination of things; we've just got to put it out of our minds and bounce back," said Millington.

Ewing Win No Dream. Two days earlier, Post 76 had braced itself for Ewing which brought a six-game winning streak to Clarke Field. Seven runs later Ewing still had not retired a single Post 76 batter and Millington allowed that "I was standing there pinching myself to make sure this was actually happening."

After plating eight runs in the first, Post 76 coasted to an 11-0 win. Dan Arendas got the win, his second without a loss, while Ender had a big night at the plate, driving in two runs with three hits, one a triple. Petrone and centerfielder Kevin Phox each had two hits and drove in two runs.

Earlier, John Marjarwitz, after being called on for brief relief stints in Princeton's previous two games, went the distance in an 8-5 win over Broad Street Park.

Catcher Scott Ellis ripped a two-run single for Post 76 in the third when Princeton scored three runs. In the fourth, two walks, two errors and Ender's double accounted for four more runs.

The victors backed up Marjarwitz by playing errorless ball. He singled out centerfielder Kevin Phox, who made two glittering catches in the early going when Marjarwitz was laboring. One grab to deep right-center in the fourth, came after a leadoff single.

Millington also had his players running, as Post 76 stole six bases in six attempts. Arendas had two thefts including a steal of home.

Post 76 began the week by running past Bordentown, 4-2. Held to just two hits by losing pitcher Rick Smith, a double by Ender and a single by Phox, Post 76 used aggressive base running, including eight stolen bases, to get runners in scoring position.

Bill Bastedo, the former Hightstown High hurler, got the win, his first after three losses. "We finally got some runs for him," said Millington.

POST 76 PLACES FIVE

On All Star Team. Five players from Princeton Post 76 have been selected for the 22-member "Country" all-star team, which will face the "City" all-stars in the annual mid-season American Legion League all-star game. The team will be led by Post 76 coach Pete Millington.

They are pitcher John Marjarwitz, second baseman Jim Scibetta, outfielders Kevin Phox and Dan Areandas and Keith Ender, who will join Bordentown's Darren Comegeys as the DH's.

League-leading Hamilton placed eight on the 21-roster City team. The game will be played Friday night at Eggerts Crossing Field.

5-5 Deadlock. Monday night, in a makeup game, Post 76 and Bordentown battled to a 5-5 tie.

The lead changed twice in the sixth. After Hightstown had scored an unearned run in the top of the frame, Princeton came back with two runs to go ahead, 5-4. Areandas led off with a single and stole second but it appeared he was going to be stranded when the next two batters went down. Phox, however, singled home Areandas with the tying run and scored the go-ahead run when Ron Kane and Chris Hunninghake followed with singles.

Hightstown tied it in the seventh on a walk and hit-and-run single by Bob Smith. Bill Bastedo and Marjarwitz shared the pitching mound for the 76ers.

GREEN, GOLD LEAD

In Summer Lacrosse League. After the first week of play in the Princeton Summer Lacrosse League, Green and Gold are tied for the lead with 2-0 records. Blue is 1-1, while Navy, Orange, Hed and White are all 0-1.

Green defeated Orange, 10-1, getting five goals from Bryce Chase Jr., two from Paul Manyoky and one each from John Hultner, Joe Wojcik and Dave Ruslin. Kevin Johnson scored both Orange goals.

11-7 triumph over Blue. Two accounted for all 11 goals as Chase scored six and an assist and teammate Bob Littell had five. Eric Hamel's three goals paced the losers. Adding single Blue goals were Scott Waterman, Willie Whittaker, Hawley Waterman and Jeff Henkel.

Gold kept pace with a 9-6 win over White and a 9-1 decision over Navy. Brad Powers, Jim Sweetland and Chuck Wiebe each tallied two goals against White. They were backed up by single goals from Jim Delang, Jeff Akins and Alex Versfeld. Dan Rosenbloom, Edd Mitkewich, two goals each, and Marty Mitkewich and Amiel Bethel, one each, scored for White.

Against Navy, Wiebe connected three times, while Delang and Versfeld, combined for four goals. Todd Breithaupt and Akins added single goals. Hosenbloom scored the lone goal for Navy.

Eight players scored in Blue's 12-3 rout of Red. Hawley and Scott Waterman, Hamel, and Jeff Henkel each scored twice, while Chris Henkel, Jim Cantrill, Alec Chanin and Chris Burchfield added single tallies. Troy Norris, John Hoff and Tim Sheehan scored for Red.

MIKE'S TAVERN UPSET

In Women's Softball League. The Princeton Women's Slow Pitch Softball League resumed play, after last week's games were rained out, with two close contests.

In games this week, Mike's opposes Conte's and P.I.T.C. goes against Koffee Kup. Both games start this Wednesday at 6:15 at the Community Park Fields.

Conte's dramatic win, which puts it in sole possession of first place, began after a scoreless first inning with two runs in the top of the second on hits by Jackie Rock, Fran Johnston, Lee Versfeld, and Carol Ann Mazzella.

Good defensive play by both teams, including two double plays by Conte's infield of Mazzella, Peggy Woods, and Nancy Pesce, and solid out-fielding by Andy's Kim Bedesem (who also had 3 hits) and Carey Crutcher, highlighted the next several innings.

After Wood opened the top of the 10th for Conte's with a double, Rock drove in the go-ahead run, and later scored on a Pesce double. Conte's then retired Andy's in order to preserve the win.

second game, P.I.T.C., although outlit, 12-5, jumped to an early lead, by scoring three runs in the top of the first on walks and a Carol Beske hit. Mike's got one run back in the bottom of the second on a Kathy Shillaber RBI. P.I.T.C. scored the winning run in the top of the fourth when Cheryl Spratt was driven in by Marte Pierson.

In the bottom of the fifth, Debbie Breithaupt and Oee Pearce singled and were both driven in on a Oebbie Ficarro pinch-hit double to narrow P.I.T.C.'s lead to 4-3. P.I.T.C. was unable to generate any offense in the next two frames but continued to play good defense, led by shortstop Liz Cramp, Beske at second and Cos Cosgrove at third.

Mike's mounted a threat in the bottom of the seventh, when with one out, Breithaupt got on via an error and, with heads-up baserunning, advanced to third. However, she got no further, as winning pitcher Linda Bassett retired the next two batters on infield outs to nail down the win.

refrigerator, stove, metal bed. The instructors start the fire. The men don't know, when they enter, what kind of game the instructors have set for them — as in a real fire — so they must look everywhere. In two lines of four men each, one line to a floor, the men enter the burning house and vanish. All you can see, from the outside, is smoke coming out the window.

"There's so much smoke inside you can't see, so all you can do is go in there and dig for it," Chief Wadsworth explains, watching to see how quickly the smoke dissipates. "If it dissipates quickly, they did it. If it doesn't, then they missed something."

It dissipates in about three minutes. They didn't miss a thing.

As the exercises proceed, the Burlington instructor watches and teaches.

"Open that door v-e-r-y slowly," he says with emphasis. "Feel the door: if it's hot — don't open it."

In the one "evolution" reporters are allowed to join, only one fireman wears the Scott Air-pak. He is the one with the hose. The purpose of the exercise is to show why it's a good idea to play the hose on the ceiling, rather than on the fire itself. And incidentally, it is a lesson in smoke.

In the dark, ground-floor room, about the size of a living-room, bales of hay are ignited at one side, facing the firemen. The instructor, who had described what was going to happen, points out how the flames climb up the wall, then lick out toward you across the ceiling.

You train the hose, not on the flames themselves, but on the ceiling, "to cool it up there." With the heat so reduced, he explains, you can stay longer in the burning room.

Just at the right moment, he directs the fireman to send a stream of water out the window. This creates a vacuum — you can feel it with your hand — and sucks out the smoke.

Before this drill, the instructor tells the men to leave if they feel sick from the smoke. There is no macho, no scorn for anyone who might want to leave. It is a learning session, not a proving ground.

The men are young, in their twenties or thirties, yet they are visibly tired after each exercise. The Burlington instructor warns them at the beginning: any horseplay and you're OUT.

But there is none. Only quiet excitement and barely suppressed eagerness. At lunchtime, it's soft drinks and not beer. After lunch, it's more smoke. And at the end of the day, a renewed sense of professionalism, a sense of the baptism of fire.
